

ENTHUSIASM EXHIBITED IN SCARLET KEY

Five Candidates Elected by Acclamation FROM JUNIOR YEAR
Thirty-two Men Nominated for Seventeen Seats

Sponsors of the Scarlet Key Society expressed great satisfaction yesterday at the apparent enthusiasm shown by the University in nominating no less than thirty-five men for this society.

In the Faculties of Law and Dentistry the five candidates are automatically elected by acclamation due to the coincidence of the number of those required. The other four Faculties of Arts, Commerce, Science and Medicine will be asked to select by ballot twelve representatives out of the twenty-seven nominated.

Medicine tops the list of nominations with nine candidates for four seats. Arts follows with eight for the same number, while Science and Commerce each propose five men for the four positions allotted.

On their election, the representatives will meet for the purpose of choosing men to fill the remaining seats necessary to bring the total membership up to thirty-five.

The acclamations included: Van Vleet and J. G. Porteous for Law and for Dentistry; McMahon, Voissard and Robinson.

The various candidates and their nominations are as follows:

We the undersigned, hereby nominate T. G. Henderson as a Representative from the Faculty of Arts to the Scarlet Key Society.

J. V. Casgrain, S. B. Millen, C. L. Tullie, J. S. B. Pemberton, Milton Doushette, R. N. Gammell, J. M. C. Duckworth, Hazen Hansard, A. R. Bazin, A. W. Boos.

We the undersigned, hereby nominate S. B. Millen as a representative from the Faculty of Arts to the Scarlet Key Society.

S. B. Hayes, E. M. Atwood, R. C. Tennant, J. Gordon Reed, Hazen Hansard, A. Gordon Nairn, Graeme Gornie, J. Gordon Whitehead, G. M. Gore, C. E. Schwisberg.

We the undersigned, hereby nominate W. U. Dubrule as a representative from the Faculty of Arts to the Scarlet Key Society.

Victor Charbonnet, J. M. C. Duckworth, Riel Oxley, Laurence Hart, S. B. Millen, H. E. Rydell, Gordon Davidson, A. M. Alexander, E. M. Gammell, W. F. Shepherd.

We the undersigned, do hereby nominate Edward H. P. Hamilton as Arts Representative of the Scarlet Key Society.

McGILL STUDENT BUREAU IS AID TO ACTIVE MEN

Part Time Work Obtained for Many Men
ENROLL TO-DAY
Good Prospects for all Men Spare Time

The inauguration of the Students' Employment Bureau, is an innovation that is bearing fruit splendidly, according to reports. Students that have spare time and are willing to utilize it to advantage are flocking in and registering daily with Miss Heasley. The result obtained so far by this youthful enterprise, point to its becoming a great success in the near future.

Employers who are aware of the idea, are taking advantage of the enterprise, as a solution of their difficulties, difficulties that are quite serious at times.

Special efforts are taken to bring to the notice of all probable employers, the inauguration of our employment bureau. Printed circulars are being sent to all the prominent firms of Montreal, informing them of our employment bureau men are being interviewed where necessary. The idea is being boosted tremendously. Miss Heasley, secretary of the employment bureau, reports that in date, a large number of firms have already registered and taking advantage of the idea to the utmost.

Members of the student body who are interested, are especially requested to enroll. The procedure is very simple. The enrolling student, fills out a card with his name, faculty, year, type of work he is experienced in, the amount of spare time at his disposal, the hours and the days on which he has these free hours. With this information at its disposal, the bureau, picks its men. The man who has the necessary time open is notified. He is requested to call at the office, for his assignment. At the office he is informed of the position open, the necessary information and a card of introduction given.

A necessary and a very serious duty required by the employment bureau, is for a man to report what success or lack of success he has met with the seriousness of fulfilling this latter duty cannot be stressed enough. Failure to report, may mean the placing of the man on the aside list and the consequent loss of position on the reserve list.

Men who are unable for any reason, to fill the position, and do not notify the office, are wasting an opportunity, not for themselves, but for some other man. The neglect also reflects on the office and impairs its efficiency. The assignment given is strictly confidential and cannot be transferred.

Co-operation on the part of the student members is absolutely essential for the ultimate success of the bureau. To affect this, nothing would be better than for the enrolled students to call at the office frequently, that the secretary may keep in touch with particular needs of each individual member.

Miss Heasley in an interview yesterday stated that all information given to the bureau is confidential and exclusive. She evinced surprise at the variety and number of things the members as a whole, show themselves capable of doing. These capabilities extend from book-keeping, drafting, surveying, tailoring, switch-board work, chemical analysis and finance.

CLASS BASKETBALL TO START SEASON

Important Meeting of Managers to be Held To-day

A very important meeting of the inter-class basketball managers will be held to-day in Coach Van Wagner's office at 5:00 p.m. It is hoped that final arrangements in regard to practice hours and schedule of games will be made so that the league may get away to a good start. It is necessary for all managers to be present.

The league is formed of teams from the Freshman and Sophomore classes and the schedule is in the form of a Round Robin. The league carries on in this way until about the end of January, when an elimination tournament takes place amongst the upper classes. The winner of this tournament plays the winner of the first and second year league for the championship.

Owing to the importance of these interclass games in training new men for the regular teams, Coach Van Wagner has reserved the hours of 5 to 7 p.m. for the games.

LADY BYNG OPENS BAN RIGH HALL

Miss Hurlbatt Attends Opening of Women's Residence

Ban Righ Hall (hall of the Queen) is the outcome of fourteen years' effort on the part of the Alumnae of Queen's University. The work was suspended during the war and during the million dollar endowment fund campaign. The cost estimated in 1911 was more than doubled in 1924. One hundred thousand dollars was raised by the Alumnae and the University gave eighty thousand.

The new hall and women's Union stands on a beautiful site at the edge of Queen's campus a short distance from the lake shore and is planned to allow future development. The special features of the beautiful grey stone building are the vast common room, itself a modest college hall and a long dining room beautifully lighted on both sides. There are study bedrooms for about fifty students and day students have the use of the Common room and dining room for lunch. The students using the hall and union are all women of the faculty of Arts and are about three hundred in number.

Ban Righ Hall was opened on Thanksgiving Day by Her Excellency Lady Byng and a small memorial tablet which was dedicated to Mrs. Gordon wife of the late Principal was also unveiled in the dining room.

Before the official opening of the building the Honorary degree of L. L. D. was conferred upon Lady Byng who gave a charming address to women students.

The opportunity was taken of introducing the new Dean of Women, Miss Lady who made her first speech in her new official capacity. Miss Lady is a graduate of Queen's who subsequently took a Librarian's course and was Librarian to the League of Nations in that capacity in Geneva for two years or more.

Miss Hurlbatt paid a visit to Queen's on this memorable occasion and conveyed to them the good wishes of McGill.

McGILL MUSIC CLUB TO MEET TONIGHT

Dean Perrin Will Address Club and Mr. Guilianelli Will Sing

The first meeting of the McGill Music Club Music Club will be held this evening at 8:30 in the McGill Union. Dean Perrin will deliver an address on "Present Day Music" and Mr. Guilianelli will sing.

The Edmund Burke concert undertaken last year will be remembered to have been very successful. The proceeds from this concert enabled the club to purchase a Concert Grand piano which now adorns the Music Room of the Union.

This evening the main discussion will be directed towards the Louis Graveure concert. This concert will be the big venture of the Club this year and should prove very successful as the world famous baritone is a wonderful drawing card.

In the meeting this evening, after the immediate business has been dealt with Dean Perrin will speak and Mr. Guilianelli will sing.

This is the first meeting of the year and all interested are invited to attend.

TO THE STUDENTS

I would like very much to urge upon the students of McGill that they will find it worth while to attend the meeting of the Canadian Club to be held in the Ball Room this afternoon at five o'clock, when Sir John Power, Bart., M.P., will give an address on the present situation in Europe.

Sir John is an excellent and very acceptable speaker and one well qualified to give information on the subject he has chosen. The Assembly Room at the Union should be filled to overflowing. No member of the staff and no student should remain away if at all possible to attend.

A. W. CURRIE,
Principal.

SIR JOHN POWER WILL ADDRESS CANADIAN CLUB

To be Given in Union at 5 O'clock TO-DAY

"Present Situation in Europe" to be Subject of Address

Sir John Power, Bart., M.P., for Wimbledon who is to address the McGill Canadian Club today on conditions in Europe, gave an unusual and instructive address yesterday before the Montreal Canadian Club at the Windsor Hotel, on the "Situation in the East and Near East, especially in Egypt and Palestine."

Sir John travelled across Canada and also visited some of the larger cities of the United States, before his arrival in Montreal with Lady Power. He was much struck in the course of his tour with the general ignorance that prevails on this side, in connection with the work Great Britain is performing in her tutelage of backward nations. The Americans, he discovered, failed to understand Britain's attitude in accepting such a responsibility and thought they must be getting something out of it. Sir John stated that when he informed them the contrary was true, they could not believe it.

In yesterday's address, he reviewed briefly but clearly the recent political developments which had led to Great Britain giving up her Protectorate in Egypt and told of the rapid decay in administrative standards which had followed this act and had culminated in the assassination of Sir Lee Stack and the resignation of approximately three quarters of the Englishmen who had for so many years controlled the general and local administration of affairs in that country. He also explained the system of mandates and gave illuminating particulars of the present condition of affairs in Palestine, Iraq and Syria.

Sir John's address today to the McGill Canadian Club on "The Present Situation in Europe" should be even as interesting and valuable as yesterday's speech to the Montreal Club, it is considered.

He will deal with France, Germany and the economic and industrial position in England today.

SUBSCRIPTIONS SELL FAST FOR NEW REVIEW

McGill Fortnightly Within Two Weeks

LEACOCK WRITES

New Journal Will Also Deal With Students Politics

At a meeting of sponsors of the Fortnightly Review yesterday much satisfaction was expressed over the financial report.

Already $150.00 has been subscribed towards the new venture, and though this is but half the sum necessary to publish the review, it is felt that it is little doubt but that the required amount will be easily made especially as the professors and the graduates have not been approached, as yet for subscriptions.

A circular letter has been prepared to send to members of the staff explaining the exact nature of the review.

The trouble with most humor centers is that they haven't got a censor.

NEW SCHOLARSHIPS FOR HEBREW DEPT.

Three Annual Awards For Semitic Languages

The foundation of the University of Jerusalem one of the most significant movements in the history of the modern university has impressed upon the Jewish and Christian world alike the necessity of endeavoring research in ancient Semitic languages and civilization more generously than has previously been the case.

Impelled by this movement several public-spirited Jewish Canadians have offered a number of Hebrew scholarships for work in the McGill Oriental Department.

One such scholarship has been offered by Mr. Louis Fitch, K.C., an old graduate of McGill, and others by Mr. A. J. Freeman of Ottawa and Mr. Asher Pierce of Montreal, and others will be offered in the near future.

These scholarships will be awarded annually to Jewish and Christian students alike who have reached a high standard in the work of the undergraduate years, and in the graduate school.

The Louis Fitch scholarship for the year 1924-1925 has been awarded to D. Barzai (Arts '27) and the J. A. Freeman and Asher Pierce Scholarships for the same year, have been awarded to Mr. Watson Boyes and Rabbi Berger for distinguished work in the Graduate school.

Though Hebrew is sometimes spoken of as one of the dead languages, it is far from being "dead" at McGill. This is evident from the fact that over 70 names were enrolled last October for the different courses in the Oriental Department. This is probably the largest enrolment in any English speaking university in the world, though enrolment at Toronto is nearly as large.

TURKEY DINNER IN UNION GRILL

Casey's Band Renders Eight Selections

A fair turnout was seen at the Union yesterday at 5:30 p.m., to sample Pierre's culinary offering, in the shape of a turkey dinner, with all the trimmings pertaining thereto. At 5:45, the band, under the able though somewhat catatonic leadership of Ed. Casey, took up its stand on the rotunda, and rendered a programme of eight selections. Needless to say, this was well received by the diners, who enjoyed the strange pleasure of listening to the sweet strains, which their gastronomical cavities at the same time were rapidly expanding under the pressure of Waldorf salad and golden brown turkey.

The proceeds of the dinner are going to the band, to help them get to Toronto. Yesterday's dinner was the first of what Pierre hopes to prove a succession of similar turkey feasts, to tempt the weary students' appetites.

VENOMOUS SNAKES GIVEN TO MCGILL

Capt. Malone, a Graduate, is Donor

McGill has just been presented with a rare collection of the most venomous snakes in India. The donor is a McGill graduate, whose later travels have been far afield, ending in Britain's eastern empire.

Specimens of five dangerous types of reptiles are in the collection, which have been given to the museum in the Pathological Institute.

Capt. R. H. Malone, M.D., the donor was formerly in the pathology department of the university, following his graduation in medicine in 1913. When the Great War came, he entered No. 3 Canadian General Hospital, McGill, as a doctor, with the rank of captain and went overseas.

Subsequently, he joined the Indian Medical Service, proceeding to Bombay in 1915, where he has been stationed up to a recent date, when he was granted a year's leave of absence. He has decided to devote this year to further studies at his Alma Mater, specializing in public health work, and working for the diploma of public health.

The five kinds of snakes represented in the collection are the Cobra, Russell's Viper, Banded Krait, Krait, and the Echis.

"You don't need to open your mouth so wide," said the dentist, "I'm going to stand right here on the floor."

SCIENCE STILL STANDS CHANCE AS CHAMPIONS

Defeated Dentistry in Determined Struggle
SCORE 5-1

Law, Medicine and Science Still Remain in Struggle

Yesterday's interfaculty rugby game, on the campus, which resulted in a victory for the would-be Scientists leaves them well to the front amongst the aspirants for the interfaculty rugby laurels.

They have yet to meet and conquer the winner of the afternoon's game, between Law and Medicine. To-day's game should prove exciting as Law and Medicine are worthy opponents. They at present have tied for first place, each having beaten the other by a margin of one point.

In their first encounter Medicine beat Law with a score of six to five. Law last Friday not to be out done returned the compliment by beating their opponents with the score standing at 13 to 12.

Science and Dentistry fought an even battle for the most part yesterday and although the fight was waged well a thin Dental territory Science could not break away for any "ditch snatching." It was not till the second half that Science was able to take advantage of a fumble in the shadow of the Dental portals that they having obtained the ball were able to shove Jerry Reid across the line for the one touch of the game, which they failed to convert. Dentistry then made a determined effort to wipe out this blot on their escutcheon but only succeeded by sending over a feeble rouse to counteract it.

The line up was as follows:

CHORAL SOCIETY TO GIVE CONCERT SOON

Will Practice New Songs Tonight in Conservatorium

The McGill Choral Society will hold another practice at 8 o'clock to-night in the conservatorium and a good attendance is anticipated.

At the last two practices several new part songs have been tried with quite satisfactory results. These songs vary in character and seem to be liked by all, at least so one would conclude from the hearty manner in which they have been sung.

A concert has been planned to take place shortly before the Christmas holidays. If this is to be a success, several more good practices are necessary. There are still many vacancies in all parts and anyone connected in any way with the University is cordially invited to attend.

R. V. C. MUSIC CLUB TO MEET THIS AFTERNOON

The R. V. C. Music Club will meet for the first time this session in the Common Room of the R. V. C. at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The chief business is the election of a first year representative to the executive, in view of which freshmen are asked to come prepared to make nominations for this office.

The entertainment afterwards will consist of a varied program, the items of which are as follows:

Violin: Caprice Vennoise—Kreiser
Miss Kathleen Perrin.
Vocal: In Flanders Fields—Andrews,
"Trees"—Oscar Rosbach, "The Leaves and the Wind"—France Leoni, Miss Frances James.
Piano: Rondeau in Ab Major—Field, Miss Nance McMartin, "L'ebestaure"—E-Major—D. L. Miss Joan Marsters.
The meeting will be concluded by the serving of tea. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone, and freshmen especially are urged to be present.

IMPORTANCE OF S.C.A. SHOWN TO THEOLOGS

Rev. Cockin Gave Address at Monthly Meeting
DISCUSSIONS

Theologs. to Enter Team in the Inter-Faculty Debating Competition

At the second monthly meeting of the Theological Undergraduate Society last night the vital importance of the S. C. A. to Theological students was emphasized by Rev. F. A. Cockin and Rev. Elton Scott. At the conclusion a lengthy discussion was indulged in, but could only be truly expressed in the remarks of young.

The business meeting was held previous to the talk and the various committees having met, showed that the Theolog Soccer Team would play against Science next Monday and that there would be a Theological Team entered in the Inter-Faculty Debating Competition.

Rev. Elton Scott outlined the movements of the S. C. A. describing it essentially as a fellowship of students, thereby differing from other University Associations. In the first place it was a Movement and not a Society, having for its object the study and understanding of the Life of Jesus Christ.

As there is no bound constitution it is of necessity swayed very much by personality; the expression of which varies as the various units in the different Universities. Although perhaps in one vicinity it may tend to Fundamentalism, in another to Christian Science yet whether in America, Canada or Budapest, they are all united by the one thought of the finding of the greatest principles in Christ's Life. For this there was great scope of missionary work in the University, where perhaps the greater part were disinterested in and those who professed Christianity, were not up to the standard.

Mr. Cockin gave an outline of the S. C. A. with relation to Oxford how that the hard work previous to 1914 had been crushed and in the rebuilding there were great problems to be faced; the most importance of which was the relation between the Meds, Science, Arts men and the Theologs. The S. C. A. gave an opportunity for a free experimental and spontaneous attempt to find a way for men and women to express themselves, and in this Theologs can give help in leading groups and guiding thoughts along a well formed way, just as they were being trained to be responsible for the training of the younger generation, so the S. C. A. is trying to teach the young intellectuals who will be the readers of to-morrow's thought. The besetting sin of Theologs is professionalism, which can be checked by keeping in touch with men who are looking on the world from the viewpoint of Medicine, Science, Economics and History. It would be a grand thing to get a future doctor's opinion of suffering and pain, and an economist's standpoint of how a Christian attitude works in with the great industrial system. In Canada, the Theolog had a greater chance of working in with the University life and undoubtedly he could gain more and give more if he turned his actions into the channels of the S. C. A.

Outlining a few suggestions Mr. Cockin showed his great liking of occasional retreats for two days, when all might get together for heart to heart talks each denomination bringing its own thought; for it seemed that stifled public meetings tend to suppress the essentials of what must become the real objects of S. School Work, Prayer meetings and Religious life as a whole. He suggested a conference of Theologs young ministers and certain laymen to meet out the real meaning of the criticism of the church which he found to be more serious in England than in Canada. Such points should be taken to find out where the weakness was; why there were masses who were so indifferent; how is Christianity going to be put to the people; are the younger ministers going to face their congregations and tell the truth.

Harry Avison, Theology '25 expressed his dissatisfaction of the Theologs who seemed to be disinterested. Theologs may have a hard lot in the University but surely they could show more interest. McGill needed its Theologs to mingle with the other members of the University. He was rather worried at the poverty of forward out look in the minds of the

SATURDAY'S GAME

Yesterday in one of the city newspapers there appeared a letter to the editor deploring what the writer thought to be a shocking exhibition of sportsmanship at last Saturday's game, and generally protesting against the players' and rooters' idea of fair play.

While we think there is some ground for the opinions expressed, we wish to answer for these criticisms, feeling that McGill and Canadian football were unnecessarily abused.

Urging the spirit of British fair play which certainly is desired at all times, the writer stated that brutality and play-to-kill tactics were becoming all too prevalent on our football campus and accordingly predicted a very gloomy future for the game if these tactics were kept up. This stand is quite untrue. Football is undoubtedly the most highly organized and coached of games to-day, and for that reason is occasionally blemished with poor play on the part of some naturally over-zealous players. But to say that this is of frequent occurrence and that such unsporting incidents are part of the tactics in the game is grossly unfair and untrue. We do not think, moreover, that any of the casualties in the game were due to such tactics. Occasional unsporting acts have happened in all games at all times, and this is accordingly true of football to-day. They are the acts of men who know no better or who have not the rudiments of fair play in them.

As for the supposed ungentlemanly act of the rooters, it was merely an overflow of spirits on the part of a few. No one was the worse for it, and there was no ill-feeling on either side.

ARMISTICE DAY

In the past few days and particularly yesterday countless services have been held throughout the Dominion in commemoration of Armistice and of our sons that lay down their lives in the Great War that we might live.

Here at McGill the University as a whole observed this solemn occasion, a memorial to the termination of the greatest wave of sacrifice in the world's history, by two minutes of silence and meditation.

Armistice is not only an occasion of thanksgiving for peace, nor one of commemoration for all who fell in a great cause, it is even more. It is a time when we should catch and rouse within ourselves that spirit handed on to us by our dead: "To you from failing hands we throw the torch; be yours to hold it high."

When we think of this occasion and its profound significance we may ask ourselves if we pay it due respect by the mere observance of two minutes of silence. We wonder if in these moments we can grasp its full meaning. It does not seem possible.

McGill, with the glorious record of her men who fought and fell on the field of battle and of those who have returned into our midst, should do more to commemorate Armistice Day. Another year it would be in keeping with the occasion if part of the morning were set aside for a church service which the whole University might attend, there to commemorate the fallen in simple devotion and recall with benefit their undying spirit of sacrifice.

young ministers of the city and was sure that there must be a slower, more convincing means to influence the mind of the people.

In his summing up remarks Mr. Cockin showed that Theologs not a mission, as most commonly dubbed, but a grander feeling and deeper knowledge of the best of life which the other students seem to lack or perhaps only to conceal. In all their actions and attitudes to the S. C. A. here should be a constructive rather than destructive policy.

"How would you solve the problem of congestion of numbers in the university?"

"I would send two per cent of the best looking girls home."

Afterthoughts of an Undertaker

Here lies George, whose wife was thin. He died of brandy, and a rolling pin.

Oh, shucks, he hiccupped, "I'm poisoned."

So saying he slunk to the floor practically dead. In fact he was dead except for a slight twitching of the ears. His wife stopped the shining of her finger nails and eyed him morosely. That was the way with life, she thought—here one minute, there the next. It was very sad. He was so kind when he was sober, and parts of his face were so handsome. She couldn't remember which. There are so many parts to a face. And she couldn't remember when he was sober. That came from living in a big three-room house. They saw each other so seldom and so incompletely. She bent over him tenderly. There was nothing in his pockets but a thin dime. God! And the installments on the set of art pictures to meet. The left ear had stopped twitching by now, but the right had speeded up. It annoyed her, so she tied it to a chair with a string. Then a thought pummeled her. What if people said he hung himself? She removed the string and substituted a safety pin.

The safety pin reminded her of clothes. She had forgotten to dress that morning. She was that forgetful. And she was so thin her clothes would slide off anyhow. Sometimes they slid off on the street. Sometimes when the elevator started up, it was curious but not interesting. George was fat. Her figure was uneventful. George was her husband, although it wasn't his fault. She wasn't sure his name was George. There are so many names.

The ear had stopped twitching now, so she removed the safety pin. "A pin in time may save my life," she snickered. Women are such fools.

Then she remembered George and sighed. She sighed rather well, but a little too deep in her throat for a really first-class sigher. She had so much throat.

A knock knocked at the door. It was me.

"Come in," she gaspulated. I do it. "Madame," I scuttled, "your clothes."

"They're as good as yours," she snapped, "but I've forgotten where I put them."

"If you put them on," I suggested.

The Editor,

McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:—An article appeared in Tuesday's issue to which I would like to take exception. This was a reference made to some decisions by the referee Isbister which apparently did not seem quite right. I am of the opinion that it is much better to forget about such things when the game is over and especially after we have been beaten.

Many differences arise on the playing field to which we might strenuously object. However after we have won or lost we should forget all these differences and rest contented that we are still true sports.

Sincerely yours

N. W. PHILPOTT

The Editor

McGill Daily;

In regard to the criticism of officials in the Intercollegiate Football Games, I wish to express the opinion of the McGill team and myself.

I firmly believe in the honesty and impartiality of our officials. That they have made mistakes is true, and that McGill has unfortunately been the victim of these mistakes may also be true. But when one stops to consider the many duties the rules impose upon them, and also the hazy wording of these rules that leave them open to so many different interpretations one wonders how an official can possibly conduct a game without incurring criticism. The addition of one more official would certainly lighten the burden and a book of rules intelligently composed would do wonders for the game.

The story in the McGill Daily stating the crowd's opinion of Mr. Isbister certainly cannot be taken as a criticism by the McGill team as we all know Bob Isbister as a thorough sportsman and gentleman.

FRANK SHAUGHNESSY

IT'S JUST THE LITTLE THINGS

An old lumberjack had been separated from his wife for twenty years. The cause was the neighborhood mystery. No one had any idea why the separation came about, and although there was much curiosity, none dared to ask the silent husband.

Finally there was a big celebration and timber cutting bee in the camp. Discussion was revived and one brave lumberjack decided to get the hard details.

He went up to the husband and said, "I know it's none of our business, but we'd all like to know just why you separated from your wife."

The man was silent and reflective for a minute. Then he answered, "Boys, it's been a long time, and up to now I've never said nothing because I loved my wife and I wanted she'd hear."

"But since you ask me now, I'll tell you the whole reason. It was long ago, as you well know. I had been working in the field all day."

"Tired and hungry, I returned to my little cottage on the side of the hill at evening. There, there—" he choked with emotion—"There I found my wife in the arms of another man."

"And do you know," said the old lumberjack, "I just turned right around and walked out. I never got so mad about a little thing before in my life."

Soph: Did he die a natural death?
Frosh: Yes he was run over in the street.

SENIORS AT IT AGAIN; SECONDS WORKING HARD

Pleskin Pete Says:

After receiving a well-earned one day's rest the senior squad was at it again up the Stadium yesterday. They were working long into the evening and were not chased to the showers till it was pretty dark. In view of the fact that the intermediates are scheduled to play a sudden-death series in Kingston this Friday they were getting a good deal of the attention.

The seniors were acting as a scrub team for a while and the seconds were running through their entire repertoire of plays against them. There is a new neat play involving a fast lateral pass right behind the line that should be a yard gainer and a point winner against the tri-colour this Friday.

Though nothing depends upon it, the seniors are working for a win this Saturday. The game against McGill A. A. Monday changed the minds of many who may previously have decided that there was no winning spirit in the McGill team.

Though he is resting comfortably, and is now out of pain, it will be absolutely impossible for invaluable Eddy Hanna to play Saturday. His injury is one which time and rest alone can heal. If he is well enough, it is proposed to take him up to Toronto to see the Varsity squad licked. It must be admitted that on paper McGill's chances do not look more than fair, though the win on Monday should mean much toward putting the boys in the right spirit for another victory.

Unfortunately, Curly Taylor, the man who turned in the wonderful exhibition against the Winged Wheelers on Thanksgiving Day will not be able to play against the big "T" this Saturday. Curly was an undergrad at Toronto last year, and intercollegiate rules do not allow men who transfer Universities to play for their new Alma Mater until one year has elapsed.

McGill Versus Varsity, January 32, 18925 A. D.

"The most killingly ex-hitting game I ever saw." Harold "Ell" Wrong, author (with apologies to Ralph Connor and Boys' Annual writers.)

The day dawned bright and red and the sun rose bathed in the sweat of dew. At last the fateful afternoon appeared, ushered in by the gate clock chiming twelve, and Ralph Roughneck burly McGill captain woke up, dressed himself and meditated as follows:—

"Well, Ralph, old cheese, this afternoon the two heaviest rugby teams in creation meet, and the whole of Earth, Mars and Venus await the result." Then he swallowed a heavy dinner of raw beef and suet pudding and made his way through the sunbeams and the gathering crowd to the dressing room, where his comrades greeted him with a yell of delight.

But what ho! There on the other side of the building, with his giant Blue-and-White pals was E.A. "Buster" Bruiser, who was to lead Varsity against McGill. And Varsity had the SECOND heaviest team on the planet, weighing one pound less than McGill (Buster didn't eat suet pudding.) The game was played, perforce, under the rules of the good old days when men were men except when they were killed in the battle, and then they were devils!

Let us cast our long eyes up to the crowds of people who assemble to see the great match—a girl in the middle is a sweet girl and her mother—the players come out...the girl utters a slow "ah-h-h-h" as Ralph Roughneck, fitted with shoulder pads and a nose-guard which made him look the picture of manhood, lopez across the field. With what grace he picks date. This may even be carried on for a few years before the event actually takes place, the idea being to enter no game without the advance knowledge which is always so advantageous.

Personal scouting is done by the coaches who practically invent the games as played by their squad. It is the devising and obtaining of new formations and offensive thrusts to use in the field. The continued success of a good team depends to a great deal upon the ability and originality of the coach who is their personal scout.

But big as it is and important as it is, scouting cannot swing the decision. The battle is still won on the field and although the scouts contribute a great deal, the armoured squad makes the final decision.

But big as it is and important as it is, scouting cannot swing the decision. The battle is still won on the field and although the scouts contribute a great deal, the armoured squad makes the final decision.

himself up after he falls on the slippery turf! But Marjorie Macconochie looks at him with a strange luster—the luster of love. Love... love... love... yum—m!

The game has started! Henry High-kick kicks the ball down into Varsity territory, but Buster Bruiser makes a perfect catch. The strong McGill forward line consisting of Billy Bellybutter, Sam Strangler, Teddy Twist-arm, Bob Biter, Silas Squeezer (the sheik) and Lemuel Legsmasher rush desperately after him but he breaks through them and jumps right over Ralph Roughneck, who falls unconscious. Nothing between Buster and a touchdown, but Bob Asbestos, who doesn't worry Buster. A touchdown! Oh McGill! The girl in the stand sees Ralph on the ground, and screams aloud. The stretcher-bearers come out but though his head has been twisted around he yells "I'm not done, boys, fight on, fight on, Vital Lampada, excelsior, blast it!"

The stand cheer, and so does the girl. But the gallant forward line are as matches (safety) in the hands of the Varsity forwards. Billy Bellybutter misses his man and falls on his head. Bob Biter bit himself instead of an opposing forward, while Silas Squeezer, in attempting to squeeze Forsyth, the Varsity back d'slocated his long arms—he couldn't reach round! And half time comes with the score.

Varsity 60, McGill 0

But Ralph Roughneck got his men together and said with great force, "We're not dead yet!" All the players answered "no!" except Lemuel Legsmasher, who WAS. They twisted Ralph's neck back into position. Buster Bruiser sets his forwards in motion. And such forwards—men every one of them—Waldie Zhyzco, Strangler Lewis, Joe Stecher, Sign'laus Zhyzco, Battling Sikkein and Sandy Mac-Dougall. But the McGill College spirit was aroused.

"A fight, a fight!!! Yell the fans. The referee rushes over to a corner of the field, but he is to late, Sam Strangler and Strangler Lewis have strangled each other to death!

Three-quarter time. And the score still 60-0.

Who says women play no part in the life of the world? What this girl did has made our friends at Varsity hate girls ever since.

Ralph's fair lovers shouted "Give 'em beans, Ralph, sit on 'em! Kill 'em!!!!"

Ralph hustled up. He threw away his helmet and shoulder pads. He took off his sweater. And he let fly. Despite the derogatory remarks of Bob Asbestos, he went over the line for touch after touch, until the score stood 60-56.

With one minute to go, McGill started a series of bucks. Time and again Asbestos and Roughneck banged through the sea of players, for gains of half a yard a time, until they reached the 'r opponents' twelve inch line.

Half a minute to go. Ralph Roughneck dashed over the line—but Forsyth was in the way, and Ralph couldn't reach the ground, over him.

Fifteen seconds to go. Asbestos went through and gained six inches—six inches from the line. Two seconds to go. Ralph gained three more inches, but lost his head and went off yelling "Keep it up boys, you've got time."

Half a second to go. Asbestos plunges through but Waldie Zhyzco grabs the ball with his third finger and holds it a tenth of an inch from the line.

Eight of a second to go. And Billy Biter comes into prominence.

One sixteenth of a second. Billy BITES WALDEC'S THIRD FINGER RIGHT OFF!

And with one-sixty-fourth of a second to go, Asbestos has gone over. McGill wins 61-60.

And Ralph? His head has been screwed on again but not tight enough. He married Marjorie but went to Hollywood and divorced her. And Marjorie? Well, she married Bob Asbestos.
